The steep climb at the start of the walk is worth the effort as you pick your way through some impressive and unusual trees in the old arboretum. You'll catch glimpses of the Llugwy Valley as you climb, but these views are just a taster. On top of a knoll, you will find a bench with a wonderful panoramic view across to Moel Siabod, the Carneddau Mountains, and, on a clear day, the top of Tryfan.
